TRAGEDY: Arkadiusz Jozwik

Teen's 'not guilty' plea in Pole's death case

A TEENAGE boy charged with killing Arkadiusz Jozwik has pleaded not guilty to manslaughter.

The 15-year-old from Harlow, who cannot be named for legal reasons, will now stand trial after appearing at Chelmsford Crown Court on Friday.

Mr Jozwik, a 40-year-old Polish national, was attacked on Saturday, August 27 outside a takeaway in The Stow, Harlow, and died in Addenbrooke's Hospital in Cambridge two days later.

Judge Charles Gratwicke led the proceedings which lasted around 15 minutes.

Tracksuit

The defendant wore a grey tracksuit and trainers and was accompanied by his father who wore a black hoodie.

He spoke only to confirm his details and enter a plea. The boy appeared in Chelmsford Youth Court earlier this month for the opening hearing.

The teenager has been bailed and will reappear in Chelmsford Crown Court on Monday, July 24 when the trial begins.

This will be preceded by a pre-trial hearing on Thursday, April 13.

Mr Jozwik moved to Harlow in 2012 to join other members of his family.

He worked in a sausage manufacturer in River Way.

HOSING DOWN: The flames are extinguished

Bright sparks douse fire before 999 crews arrive

Car rental workers use firm's extinguishers to put out blaze

By William Mata

will.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk

QUICK-THINKING employees of Alley Cat Car Rental managed to stop a fire before the blaze spread.

Flames erupted from the back of a Dorringtons delivery van at around 8am on Monday when the vehicle pulled up outside the garage in Cambridge Road, Harlow.

But before fire crews arrived members of staff managed to extinguish the blaze.

Caris Batley, a receptionist at Alley Cat, said: "On the work CCTV screen we could see smoke. It was something to do with the refrigerator."

"We were in fear of an explosion. "We have our own vans and with something like that you are worried."

"Two members of staff extinguished

it. We have a fire extinguisher in the office and we had to go out and get another one from the warehouse."

"It was fast acting, no seconds thoughts, they just jumped in and did what needed to be done."

She said the two who put the fire out were Callum and Terry Archer.

Overheating

Fire crews using one appliance came and arrived around 8.15am. A spokesman from Essex County Fire and Rescue said the blaze is thought to be caused by the vehicle overheating.

A Harlow resident, who did not wish to be named, added: "It looks like the van goes every day and under the flap at the back I could see smoke coming out."

"They reacted to put the flames out. It looked like it was mostly extinguished."

Paralympian set to meet minister in campaign for better access to train toilets

Athlete is winning fight for changes

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

PARALYMPIAN Anne Wafula-Strike is "optimistic" that the Government will improve access to train toilets following her recent humiliation.

The Harlow wheelchair athlete was forced to wet herself on a long train ride from Nuneaton to her home in Harlow last December as no accessible facilities were on offer.

After sharing her story to highlight the plight of disabled passengers, Mrs Wafula-Strike has been invited to meet rail minister Paul Maynard.

The Department for Transport (DfT) has pledged to improve accessibility by making information more clear and by lobbying train companies.

Mrs Wafula-Strike, who has no use of her legs, said: "I do not want to be over-excited until I have seen the full detail but I am optimistic."

"I have seen the press release and (it looks like) one step forward towards change and we are heading in the right direction."

"It is the details that are important. It needs to be tangible."

Mrs Wafula-Strike, who was born in Kenya but took British citizenship in 2006, now participates in extreme sports. She was awarded an MBE in 2014 and is a board member for British Athletics.

She was travelling back from one of their meetings on a CrossCountry train and the disabled toilet was out of order. She was told to get off at a station but nobody was around to help her. CrossCountry has since apologised.

"My story sparked everything, and Robert Halfon (the Harlow MP who is also disabled) has been pushing," she said.

"Many other people have now been sharing their experiences. I think it is important the public realise what it is like."

"At the moment I am sort of pleased. Until I have seen what has been put down on paper I will not get overexcited. It has been going on for a long time and people are starting to listen."

Challenge

In a statement today, Mr Maynard said the DfT would challenge train companies to inform passengers if disabled facilities are out of order before the train departs.

Maintenance teams will also ensure accessible toilets are more reliable. Mrs Wafula-Strike was used as an example in the department's statement of action.

Mr Maynard said: "I take the issue of accessibility on our railways extremely seriously and these commitments from industry are just one step forward to improve things."

"It is vital that all people, including disabled passengers, are able use public transport and I will continue to push train companies on this matter."

'OPTIMISTIC' FOR FUTURE: Anne Wafula-Strike has campaigned for disabled passengers to have greater access to train toilets

A fond farewell to The Square

HUNDREDS of music lovers flocked to The Square in Harlow as the iconic venue hosted one final show before its doors closed for good. There has always been something about The Square that makes it so special, and the farewell gig on Saturday, January 28 was no different. Charlotte Page was there...

NOT only is it one of the UK's last independent music venues, but people across the town, myself included, have grown up with The Square.

When you walk in, there is a sense of both nostalgia and unity as people come together to share their passion for music and last night was no different.

First to take to the stage was Brighton punk band, The Orphans.

As the three teenagers performed songs such as I Don't Miss You and Block 10, it is clear to see how The Square helps to support upcoming bands by providing them with platform to launch their music career.

Lucky

The band paid special thanks to The Square saying how lucky they felt to get a slot on the stage, showing the importance of playing at a recognised venue.

The Square's business partner, Adam Smith, who joined the band on stage, said: "It's been a pleasure playing with The Orphans."

"New bands start out here and they've got to go somewhere."

"Keep an eye out for them."

Next up was home grown band, Newtown Neurotics, who shared their memories of early performances at The Square in between playing hit after hit, with the enjoyment of both the band and crowd clear to see.

The band dedicated their final song, Keep the Faith, to radio host, Steve Lamacq, who had finished his evening BBC Radio 1 show with the same song before he moves to DJ for BBC 6Music.

Frontman, Steve Drewett, said: "We need to stand together to get through this particular period.

SINGER: Eboni Main from The Orphans

"I believe one day we will have a venue in this town."

"We will save our Square one way or another."

Headline for the evening was the legendary Eddie and the Hot Rods whose enthusiasm worked its way through the crowd.

They were joined on stage by special guests including DJ Jim Jones for a cover of Born to be Wild which the crowd certainly did go wild for.

Lead singer, Barrie Masters, said: "It's such a shame that this place is going."

"This is a special night for The Square and we're glad to be part of it."

"A gig doesn't get made without people to go to."

Packed

It was especially nice to see throughout the night so many familiar faces from in and around the community.

From those on the music scene to teachers and residents, the packed out audience shows how much The Square means to people.

As the night came to a close, although you could feel a sense of sadness, there was also a sense of achievement for all that The Square has done for the town.

ENJOY: Crowds watch the farewell gig

SOUNDS: Christian F, sound engineer of 33 years

From supporting young musicians to offering people just the chance to escape and enjoy themselves, it really is the heart of Harlow.

SAFETY FEARS: Twenty-four pedestrians in five years injured on major routes

Concerns over lack of town crossings

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SHOPPERS are being left to cross four lanes of fast traffic due to a lack of crossings in Harlow, according to a town councillor.

In the past five years 24 pedestrians have been injured on five major roads around the town centre and concerns have been raised about the safety for walkers and cyclists.

Fed-up

Mike Danvers, town and county councillor for Labour, said: "It is what we hear most often on the doorsteps and people are fed up."

"Fourth Avenue is particularly bad with shoppers leaving their car at Sainsbury's. They are crossing four lanes of fast-moving traffic and cutting through the bush on the other side of the road to access the town centre."

"We need a crossing here. The underpass is too far away and people do not use it."

Six people were injured on Fourth Avenue in the past five years. This compares to 12 on First Avenue, two on Velizy Avenue, one on Haydens Road and three on Fifth Avenue.

Despite the proximity of these roads to the town centre there are precious few crossings between them.

John Curry, resident of Old Orchard, Harlow and member of Harlow Civic Society, said: "To get into the town centre we are forced to go on a route we do not want to go."

"There are two official crossing places on three of the roads (referring to Third Avenue, Haydens Road and Velizy Avenue) and it should not really be like that."

"In some places there is a fence, a dual carriageway and a 40-mile-an-hour speed limit. Harlow town centre really needs some rethinking by planners."

Highway safety is the responsibility of Essex County Council.

Responding to Mr Danvers' comments about Fourth Avenue, councillor Eddie Johnson, county council cabinet member for highways and transport, said: "The Harlow local highways panel considered the issue of pedestrians crossing Fourth Avenue away from the proper route a couple of years ago."

"It was not practical to install barriers to prevent crossing at this point and a zebra crossing had to be ruled out because of the speed of the road at 40mph. A signal crossing would be too near the roundabout."

"Harlow Council has since

MAKING A POINT: Mike Danvers and Eugenie Harvey protest lack of road crossings in Fourth Avenue

closed the gap which had been made by people crossing into the Post Office car park. I would urge pedestrians to walk just a few more yards to use the safe crossing."

Lobbying

Mr Danvers said: "I will be making a strong representation of residents' concerns about the state of Harlow's roads at the county council meeting next Tuesday."

The councillor said he is also lobbying for better improvements and pothole repair to be carried out on roads in Harlow.

Eugenie Harvey, who is standing to be county councillor in May's election for Harlow South East, said: "It is a matter of time before someone is hit and injured, or worse on Fourth Avenue."

Police appeal after man was wounded during assault in daylight

POLICE have released CCTV images of two men they would like to talk to after a man was attacked with a claw hammer-type weapon in broad daylight.

The victim, who has not been named by services, was taken to hospital with wounds after the incident last Thursday in The Downs, Harlow at around 1.30pm.

His injuries are not life threatening.

A woman who lives in the road, who did not wish to be named, said: "I had heard people outside, it sounded like running, and then the ambulances and police arrived."

Another added: "I am shocked that this happened. It's always such a quiet area."

Essex Police have also released an image of a car they are interested in that was spotted in the area.

Check

A spokeswoman said: "We are asking for witnesses to come forward and would ask residents around The Downs area to check their gardens and bins for any hammers or other similar type weapons that have been discarded."

Anyone who may have any information about the incident is asked to call Harlow Police Station on 101 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

SPOTTED: This car was seen in the area at the time

STEPPING OUT: Police would like to speak to these two men in connection with an armed attack

‘Horny’ reveller bared behind in women’s toilet

£500 fine for work Christmas party pest

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A SALES rep stripped naked and exposed his bum in the ladies’ toilets of a Beefeater pub – while wearing an orange Christmas cracker hat and with a shoelace tied around his wrists.

Gary Byrne, 31, was enjoying his work Christmas party at the Harlow Mill Beefeater and had consumed half a gram of cocaine and four pints when he began to “feel horny”.

The female victim of his behaviour had been out with friends, but was confronted by a nude Byrne when she went to use the ladies’ toilets at 11.15pm on Wednesday, December 21 last year.

Kathy Wilson, prosecuting, said: “She said a man was in the cubicle of the toilets and he was completely naked. She could see his naked back and his bare bottom. He was wearing an orange Christmas cracker hat.”

While Byrne, a sales rep from Goldcrest Way, Harlow, did not expose his genitals, he was described as having a shoelace tied around his hands.

The woman headed into another cubicle but was not sure what to do.

“She felt scared,” Ms Wilson continued. “She had no way of contacting anyone because she did not have her phone. She went into the restaurant and told the people she was with that there was a naked man in the toilets.”

Restrained

When the now-clothed Byrne tried to leave, he was confronted and restrained until police arrived to arrest him.

He pleaded guilty to a single count of indecent exposure at Chelmsford Magistrates’ Court on Tuesday morning.

Lauren Bond, mitigating, said: “He went into the ladies’ by accident. He overheard two females and realised he was in the ladies’.

“He said that cocaine made him feel horny. He felt a bit excited and had the urge to show off his bare bottom to the next lady that came in.

“He took a shoelace off and tied it to his own wrist. He unlocked the door because he wanted whoever found him to be shocked.

“He does not know why he did it. It was the danger side of things that appealed to him. He admitted taking cocaine and it goes some way to offering an explanation.

“The offence itself has affected his life. He is devastated to be here.

“He can’t apologise enough. He fully understands the shock is going to affect the woman.”

Byrne spoke only to confirm his details and at times held his head in his hands.

Barry Wilden, chairman of the bench, ordered Byrne pay a £500 fine, £85 in court costs and an £85 victim surcharge. He was also sentenced to 80 hours of unpaid work.

Mr Wilden told Byrne: “By your own admission your actions were shocking.”

Three new routes from Stansted this summer

FLORENCE, Geneva and Nice are all within easy reach with the launch of new services from Stansted Airport.

British Airways has announced the three new destinations and will be increasing frequency on two existing routes this summer.

From May, the airline will begin summer-only direct flights from Stansted to Florence in Italy, Geneva in Switzerland and Nice in the south of France.

Flights to Malaga and Faro will also resume for the summer.

In addition, flights to Ibiza will increase from one to three a week and flights to Palma from weekly to two a week.

Club Europe customers will receive complimentary food and drinks on board, baggage allowance, seat selection and online check-in.

Flying

British Airways started flying from Stansted in May last year.

All the new flights will operate at weekends, and will provide more than 65,000 seats from the airport this summer, 42,000 more than last year.

British Airways CEO and chairman Alex Cruz said: "We were delighted with our first year at Stansted, giving British Airways' customers even more choice by adding a fourth London airport to our network.

"We begin our 2017 season by launching all these new routes and adding frequency to the popular Ibiza and Palma routes, providing customers with flights to the sun direct from their doorstep. These are the destinations that our customers tell us they want to fly to so we look forward to a busy summer."

Basic each-way fares from Stansted to Geneva and Nice start at £39, and to Florence from £49.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK: Passengers have been given good news by the Rail Delivery Group this week

Simplified way of booking a journey is just the ticket

Rail group promises to give passengers a cheaper and easier service

By Sam Meadows

sam.meadows@hertssexnews.co.uk

RAIL passengers will soon find buying tickets cheaper and easier, according to Greater Anglia.

The Rail Delivery Group this week announced trials of a new fares system aimed at simplifying the often mystifying process.

And operator Greater Anglia, which runs services between London and Hertford, Bishop's Stortford, Harlow and Cheshunt, has introduced its own 'price promise' - that customers will find the cheapest price on the company's website or app. And if they find a cheaper version of the same ticket elsewhere, Greater Anglia will refund the difference.

Andy Camp, the company's commercial director, said: "We fully support the Rail Delivery Group's plans.

"We are already well advanced in adopting and delivering the actions announced, with some initiatives already in place and other planned as part of our new franchise.

"We are committed to offering our customers great value fares and make it as easy as possible for them to use our services."

The operator has launched a new website which includes an easier ticket-buying process and highlights how many bargain advance purchase tickets are still available to buy.

More new fares and tickets are due to be launched later this year, including an advance-purchase ticket available up to ten minutes before departure.

Confusing

Changes to ticket vending machines include eliminating some confusing jargon and routes, such as removing the terms 'any permitted' and 'London terminals' where appropriate to do so and putting on a 'cheapest fare' button.

Customers will also be able to buy a wider range of tickets from machines, including advance purchase, weekly

PlusBus and monthly season tickets.

Existing card readers on the machines are being replaced with contactless readers which accept Apple Pay and Android Pay.

All existing and new ticket machines will be Smart-enabled for collection and purchase of Smart season tickets.

They will also provide a real-time information button, displaying the departure board from the station where it is located.

Another benefit for customers will be the installation of extra ticket machines at some of Greater Anglia's busiest stations, including London Liverpool Street, Stansted Airport, Chelmsford, Colchester and Ipswich.

Policeman talks would-be jumper away from ledge

PC calms woman in distressed state

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A POLICEMAN heroically saved the life of a woman who seemed set to take her own life.

PC Matt Hughes found the woman in a distressed state but calmly talked her down as she stood on the edge of a multi-storey car park's railings.

He said: "I was just in the right place at the right time and I'm glad I was able to get the woman the help she needed."

Missing

The officer from Harlow's local policing team received a call on Saturday to search for a missing woman.

She had been taken to hospital earlier in the day but left the infirmary before receiving medical treatment.

PC Hughes responded to the call as soon as it came in and with a wealth of local knowledge under his belt, he found the woman shortly after on the roof of the multi-storey car park.

When he first spotted her, he could see that she was standing on the edge of the railings and knew he had to approach her cautiously so that he wouldn't startle her.

Upon seeing the officer, the woman became highly distressed and seemed intent on ending her own life, but he spoke to her calmly and reassured her that he was there to help her.

A spokesman for Essex Police said: "After calm negotiation, Matt managed to convince the woman to come away from the ledge and with further negotiation the woman walked away from the edge and walked straight to Matt for a hug."

Matt took her back to Harlow Police Station to be assessed by the street triage team, before she was sectioned under the Mental Health Act.

PUBLIC JOY: 84 artworks by world famous names concealed on streets of town

Hidden sculpture treasures loved by residents

Harlow is the only sculpture town in the UK and possibly the only one in the world.

Yet despite being home to 84 sculptures, how many do we walk or drive past each day and know nothing about?

As part of the Star's series celebrating 70 years of Harlow, Charlotte Page went on a sculpture trail to find out more...

ICONIC: Charlotte Page at Henry Moore's Family Group

ON Friday I met the former chairman of Friends of Harlow Sculptures, Jenny Lushington, at the Gibberd Gallery.

Sir Frederick Gibberd clearly had a vision in mind when designing the town.

"Shall we start with Fred?" said Jenny. "He had Florence, Italy, right in his mind. He wanted people to have beautiful art surround them whilst sitting outside drinking coffee."

"He worked, planned and lived here when designing the town."

One of the most famous sculptures residents can enjoy is Henry Moore's Family Group, which is now housed inside the window of the Civic Centre in order to protect it from weathering.

Moore had a visual memory and although the sculpture resonates with Harlow welcoming young families following the war, it is based on a family he saw after their home had been destroyed.

Green

The image stayed with him and his vision now looks out on the town, fitting in line with Sir Frederick's love for green and open spaces.

As we wandered round the town and hopped in and out the car, although it may sound silly, I began to realise that these sculptures have had a life of their own.

Some have been rehomed while others have been thrown away and rescued, yet the one thing that stands out, is that people really do care for these sculptures.

In the Glebelands housing area, Barbara Hepworth's Contrapuntal Forms proudly stands.

Jenny said: "There was a time when the sculpture was to be moved. People were in horror when they heard. Barbara said if the people like it, let it stay."

"You'll often see residents look out if they see anyone around the sculpture."

WHAT MAKES OUR TOWN GREAT?

HARLOW is turning 70 in 2017 and to celebrate the Star is asking residents to share their favourite things about the town.

Each week we will share a few thoughts from residents about what makes Harlow great. Here are seven to eight:

■ 7. Kevin Forbes, 62, of Church Langley, Harlow.
Favourite thing about Harlow:
The chance to represent the town in a brass band

"As a student playing for the school band I became one of the founder members of the original and successful Netteswell Youth Brass Band which was formed in November 1967."

"The groups of young musicians from the Netteswell and Mark Hall school bands composed the initial band personnel."

"They complemented the already established Netteswell School Band, which had been in existence for some years previously and possessed a high reputation in school and youth musical circles. Its triumphs included appearances at the Royal Albert Hall in the National Brass Band Festival Concerts, several BBC radio engagements, successes in the contesting field in the UK and Europe, UK and European tours, television performances and above all representing our town of Harlow."

■ 8. Karl Heard, 36, of Potters Field, Harlow.

Favourite things about Harlow:
Filming in Harlow Town Park

"I don't think there is a better place for a child to grow up than in Harlow. It is remarkable in that around every corner are lush green spaces to be enjoyed and explored by all."

"I had many adventures as a child, letting my imagination run riot and still do. I have shot many of my short films and music videos at these locations. Most recently I made my very own Indiana Jones movie, filmed in the Town Park which was doubling as the Amazon rainforest. Harlow is one of the few places I've known where you can be yourself. If you are creative you can let your creative spirit run free in Harlow. I'm often spotted filming in Harlow dressed up in all manner of costumes, or seen racing around in one of my Sinclair C5s (I've got three now) and not once have I been singled out or bothered."

Get involved: To participate in a future edition email william.mata@hertssexnews.co.uk or write to Harlow Star, Stag House, Old London Road, Hertford, SG13 7LA.

SMILES: Jenny Lushington at The Wrestlers

STOW: Not In Anger

over the former College Square, appearing to be looking for the students who were once there.

With there being 84 sculptures throughout the town, it is hard to squeeze them all in, but what I loved most about this insight into the tour is that the sculptures are made personal.

As said by Jenny, it is very easy to say the facts and figures about each one, but on the sculpture trail, each one is made individual and accessible to the people of Harlow.

Call for Government to fund more police

Officers on duty in Essex down 22 per cent since 2009

By Sam Meadows

sam.meadows@hertsexnews.co.uk

A LEADING police officer has called on the Government to give more money to Essex Police with officer numbers now 22 per cent lower than eight years ago.

The force experienced one of the biggest year-on-year drops in the country last year as the number of officers fell by 5.4 per cent to 2,806.

And Steve Taylor, the chairman of the Essex Police Federation, said the force, which is the most hard-up in the UK, is losing more officers than it hires.

"Officers leave for a number of reasons and thankfully the number that leave purely because of stress is low," he said.

Assault

"But the assault we have suffered over the last few years on our pay and conditions has played a part.

"The change in our working environment, having to do more with less, does create pressures which make some people go 'that's not what I signed up for'."

He added: "We've seen it historically over a number of governments, the coalition Government and then the Conservatives.

"When Theresa May was Home Secretary she had strong views on policing and the pay we receive."

The drop in numbers is the biggest year-on-year fall for Essex since September 2010. Numbers are now 22 per cent lower than in September 2009, a loss of 791 officers.

Across England and Wales, in the year ending September 30, 2016, there were 122,859 police officers, a decrease of 2.2 per cent from 2015.

The decrease in the year ending September 2016 was the largest

ON THE BEAT: PC Bernard, Police and Crime Commissioner Roger Hirst and PC Jellis walking through Vineyards Shopping Centre

drop in officer numbers in the past three years.

And Mr Taylor said there was an urgent need for more money to arrest the decline.

"I would love to see the police minister Brandon Lewis increase the grant that Essex receives," he said.

"If the grant increases it's easier for us to make the case for more training and more equipment and more colleagues. Money is a big part of it."

STARK MESSAGE: Steve Taylor, chairman of Essex Police Federation

POLICE COMMISSIONER RESPONDS...

ESSEX Police and Crime Commissioner Roger Hirst said: "I do not believe that the number of police officers in Essex should reduce any further. On Thursday last week I met with the Police and Crime Panel. In this meeting I got the approval to spend funds to increase the number of officers to 2,850.

"More local, visible policing is and will remain a priority in the Police and Crime Plan."

He said the proposed council tax precept increase of 3.36 per cent will raise an additional £3.1 million and help fund some high-impact programmes, including:

■ The first phase of a programme to double the number of Special Constables to 700 by 2019

■ An increase of 41 officers for regular frontline policing, for the Serious Crime Directorate and for additional firearm officers

■ Improving accessibility by adding 15 additional police staff in the force control room to manage additional demand and improve the 101 contact service

■ Investment in dealing with digital and cybercrime and online fraud, to help tackle gangs and organised crime

■ Investment in the technology that supports the Mobile First Programme, increasing what officers can do via their smartphones on patrol, freeing up time to offer additional support to communities and improving performance management

DONE IT: Ian Beckett and Gareth Clement stayed dry for 31 days

Pair raise awareness and cash 'going dry'

TWO friends have raised more than £1,000 for charity after being sponsored to give up alcohol in January.

Ian Beckett, Harlow councillor, and Gareth Clement, chief executive of the Alcohol and Drug Advisory Service (ADAS), stayed dry for 31 days to raise £1,013.75, including gift aid.

They will donate the money to ADAS, a service based at The Stow, Harlow, which supports individuals and families affected by alcohol and drug misuse by helping them make lasting lifestyle changes.

Mr Beckett said: "ADAS envisions a society that is free from the harmful effects of alcohol and drugs and that's something I'd like to think everyone in Harlow would sign up to.

"Through dry January I'd like to think I've helped raise awareness as well as money."

Mr Clement added: "Dry January gives people a chance to take a break from alcohol, reassess how and when it features in their life and find out a few facts.

"The upsides are that you save money and can feel better in the process.

"I want to thank everyone who has supported Ian and myself by donating to ADAS and helping us reach our £1,000 target."

Restaurant destroyed by late night grill fire

A BUILDING in Old Harlow has been completely destroyed by a late night grill fire.

Three crews from Essex County Fire and Rescue Service were called to the incident at 1.37am on Sunday, at the Garden Grill in Market Street to find that an out-house was 100 per cent alight.

Firefighters, all from Harlow, worked quickly to stop it spreading to adjoining buildings and had the fire extinguished 2.29am.

The cause of the fire has been recorded as accidental, having been started when a charcoal grill caught alight.

The Garden Grill is located behind The Chequers, but a spokesperson from the pub said it had not been damaged from the blaze and is open as normal.

On Facebook, a spokesperson from the Garden Grill, said: "We have had a very unfortunate night for our business, as most of you have probably heard.

"However we will be back in business very soon.

"The premises will go under refurbishment as soon as possible.

"We are very sorry to you all once again and thank you on behalf of Garden Grill for all your custom."

Academy gets top class award for help it's giving to students

Career advice and support is recognised at County Hall presentation evening

STEWARDS Academy has received an accolade for the career advice and support that is provided to students.

In a ceremony at County Hall in Chelmsford, the academy was honoured for its work in careers and work-related learning after passing the final assessment for the ROQA (Recognition of Quality Award).

In order to achieve the award, a comprehensive portfolio was submitted of the Careers Education Information Advice and Guidance (CEIAG) and Work Related Learning (WRL) programmes in preparation for assessment and accreditation.

The award is recognised as an excellent provision by Ofsted.

The event at the council chambers was attended by careers guidance officer, Gary Cooper and work-related learning coordinator, Helen Care, who were both involved in putting together the portfolio.

Ceremony

Deputy headteacher, Mark Scholtes, also attended the ceremony with ten students and ex-students who had successfully contributed to the final assessment.

The importance of career work in schools and the value of working in partnerships with local businesses, education providers and STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Maths) related career ambassadors, was highlighted by Essex County Council chairman Councillor John Aldridge in helping to give young people the best possible start in their working lives.

Programme leader and guest speaker for the evening, Julia Yates, introduced the Stewards Academy to developing careers work, helping and find new challenges for young people when planning their careers.

Headteacher Rhonda Murthar said: "This award is testament to the excellent careers advice and guidance we provide to students.

"My congratulations to the team who have worked hard and who thoroughly deserve this recognition."

Budget store's demise brings in fresh ideas

POUNDLAND in Broad Walk, Harlow, has now closed.

The chain announced in November that some stores were to close nationwide.

Shoppers in the town spoke of the convenient location of the Broad Walk store, which was previously a 99p store.

Ms Cullun, 86, said: "I do go into Poundland occasionally with it being so close to the bus station."

"I usually go in for my biscuits and crisps."

She continued: "I get the early bus into town so that I can get the community bus back."

"I've seen the town being built so it's a shame to see another shop empty."

A spokesman from Poundland, which owns the 99p store, said: "Customers can continue to shop at the Poundland store in the Harvey Centre where they can find amazing value for just £1."

With trading ceasing at the end of the day, thoughts of Harlow shoppers turned to what may fill the large store next.

One male shopper, 62, said: "It would be great to see a department store somewhere. I think that's what this town needs."

Another female shopper said: "I'd like to see a shoe shop with reasonable prices."

Library award for well-read children

ESSEX Libraries honoured the keen reading of a Harlow primary school by presenting it with the Top Library Award.

Purford Green Primary School, Purford Green, was noted by County Hall for their commitment to their summer reading challenge and close work with Tye Green Library.

Visiting

Emma Bloomfield, head teacher, said: "We are incredibly proud to receive the award. Our on-going work with the library includes whole classes of children visiting every two weeks throughout the year, our children love to spend time there reading and exploring all the different books."

She continued: "We believe that having a passion for books and a love of reading is essential for all our children as we know it will help them to be successful in all aspects of school and later in life."

NEW ORDER: Board members of HTS launch the company which replaces Kier Harlow as council contractors

Council cuts ties with former services firm

Now new outfit will repair homes, cut grass and clean streets

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

COUNCIL housing repairs, street cleaning, grass cutting and pest control is now under the remit of a newly formed company.

Harlow Council launched HTS Property and Environment Limited after cutting ties with Kier Harlow, the firm who had been contractors for a ten year tenure.

Jon Clempner, leader of the local authority, cut the ribbon at a ceremony on Tuesday to start the HTS (which stands for Harlow Trading Services)

era. He said: "This company will serve Harlow and provide new opportunities for local people and businesses."

Value

"This has always been about making sure front-line services like cleaning the streets, cutting the grass and repairing and maintaining houses are provided well, while our residents get value for money."

HTS will be funded from within existing budgets with no extra cost to the tax payer.

More than 300 staff will be taken on as part of a transfer of undertakings agreement. An apprenticeship scheme will also begin while the company has already pledged to support Hastingwood-based charity St Clare Hospice.

Mr Clempner said: "Profits generated by the company and future savings will all come back to the council rather than the majority going to a private company (as was the case with Kier)."

"This money will help towards supporting other council services or improving services whilst giving us the flexibility to meet the financial uncertainties we continue to face."

All Kier services will be taken over. HTS will be managed by a board consisting of John Phillips Michael Harrowen, Alex Morris and three Harlow councillors Simon Carter, Bob Davis and John Strachan.

Funding

Mr Phillips, who is HTS managing director, said: "As a wholly owned company by Harlow Council, our ambitions are to generate funding back into the council, keeping the savings within the town."

"We have worked hard to ensure there is a smooth transition."

Baccalaureate success puts school on top of list for town's keen teenagers

LAST week's GCSE results tables placed St Mark's West Essex Catholic School top for students attaining the English baccalaureate.

With 36 per cent of pupils attaining the baccalaureate (Ebacc) the secondary in Tripton Road was the highest in Harlow, and above the national average of 23.1 per cent.

Ebacc is a performance measure awarded when students secure a grade C or above at GCSE level across five subjects: English, mathematics, history or geography, science and a language.

League

Elaine Heaphy, head teacher, said: "League tables can be confusing with so many changes in recent years."

"But the message for us from these is that students at St Mark's, whatever their ability, are more likely to be following a demanding curriculum, following GCSE courses, making good progress, staying in education and proceeding on to university."

In terms of the town Ebacc rankings, St Nicholas was second with 35 per cent, Burnt Mill Academy was third with 19 per cent, Stewards Academy was fourth with 18 per cent, Passmores Academy fifth with 13 per cent and Mark Hall Academy was sixth with eight per cent.

Schools were ranked nationally in terms of Attainment 8, which take a student's average grade across eight subjects. In this system St Nicholas came out top.

These tables marked a double celebration for the school arriving in the same week that sixth form student Elvis Anoma-Amoabeng received an unconditional offer to read for a degree in economics and management at Trinity College Oxford.

Daniel Goddard also received an offer to read for a bachelor of arts in modern and medieval languages at Queens College Cambridge.

Elvis said "I owe this to the teachers and the sixth form. The dedication of the teachers and their willingness to help is inspirational. I am so pleased to have studied at St Mark's."

Love across the divides

Loving

GENRE: (12A) 123 mins
Director: Jeff Nichols
Starring: Joel Edgerton, Ruth Negga, Marton Csokas, Michael Shannon, Nick Kroll, Jon Bass

THE human heart refuses to be constrained by rationality or reason. We are all slaves to those ten ounces of throbbing muscle, savouring every flutter of pleasure in the knowledge that, inevitably, there will be murmurs of pain as we mourn those closest to us.

Loving is a handsomely crafted drama about two mild-mannered, yet courageous souls from opposite sides of the racial divide in late 1950s Virginia, who followed their hearts in strict defiance of The Racial Integrity Act, which criminalised interracial marriages in the state.

The unerring devotion of Richard Loving to his wife Mildred, in the face of fierce opposition from some friends and neighbours, led to a landmark 1967 legal ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court that finally overturned decades of prejudice.

This remarkable courtroom battle against bigotry and bureaucracy provides writer-director Jeff Nichols with a deep emotional core that compels us to root for Richard and Mildred when all hope is lost.

Nichols' script draws inspiration from Nancy Buirski's celebrated 2011 documentary The Loving Story and invents some peripheral characters for the sake of dramatic expediency, without weakening the emotional wallop of the film's understated final act.

Construction worker Richard Loving (Joel Edgerton) falls giddily in love with family friend Mildred Jeter (Ruth Negga).

When she falls pregnant, the couple decide to marry.

Forbidden from consummating their relationship in Virginia, Richard and Mildred drive to Washington D.C. and return home with a marriage licence, which they proudly display on the wall of their home. Sheriff Brooks (Marton Csokas) arrives soon after with his deputies and arrests the Lovings.

They are eventually released, but the couple must publicly keep their distance.

"All we got to do is keep to ourselves for a while and this'll blow over," Richard tenderly assures Mildred.

Alas, his optimism is misplaced and the couple narrowly avoids a one-year stint behind bars by agreeing that they will not return to Virginia together for 25 years.

The case eventually attracts the interest of American Civil Liberties Union lawyer Bernie Cohen (Nick Kroll) and trailblazing civil rights lawyer Phil Hirschkop (Jon Bass).

Meanwhile, freelance photographer Grey Villet

(Michael Shannon) is commissioned to capture an intimate portrait of the Lovings' home life for TIME magazine.

Loving sensitively recreates a battle for justice waged by two quietly spoken people, who changed the course of history.

Edgerton is mesmerising as the stoic husband, whose only instruction to his legal team is to 'tell the judge I love my wife'.

Oscar nominee Negga is similarly radiant as the emotional rock in the eye of a legal storm.

Director Nichols beautifully evokes the era, allowing his camera to focus on the couple's tribulations against a backdrop of meticulous period detail.

Eating the ELEPHANT

A phrase used to describe a way of dealing with something so big, so overwhelming, that it seems impossible to manage.

Like... learning the terrible truth about a man you loved.

Like... discovering your child has been abused.

Like... realising you were living a lie.

Fresh for the challenge

By John Murdoch

THE small MPV market is coming under increasing pressure from the crossover sector with some car manufacturers going as far as withdrawing completely from the segment as sales diminish.

Ford certainly feels there is life left in MPVs as the C-MAX, based on the Focus, continues to be popular with family drivers.

It has been a success for the company ever since it was introduced back in 2003 with a second generation model arriving during 2011 and last year it went under the knife to bring it up to date.

Fresh styling, new engines and the latest tech were introduced to keep it fresh for the challenge.

The C-MAX offers five seats while the Grand version I tried can take seven passengers.

As the name suggests, the Grand C-MAX is a bigger, more practical version of the standard C-MAX and features sliding rear doors and loads of handy features as well as the two extra seats which are best suited to children.

The Grand C-MAX sits below the brand's larger and more stylish S-MAX but costs considerably less to buy and still provides the seven seat option.

As it is based on the Focus, it is fun to drive and is surprisingly agile for an MPV.

It cruises without fuss on the motorway and even although it is softer than the normal C-MAX it is still good enough to tackle twisting country roads with ease.

The steering is sharp and accurate and the suspension copes well with all surfaces and smoothes out bumps and lumps.

Three trim levels are available Zetec, Titanium and Titanium X and the test car came in mid-range Titanium guise.

It offers lots of equipment including 17-inch 15-spoke alloy wheels, fog lights, automatic headlights with LED day running lights, rain sensing wipers, a quickclear heated windscreen, rear parking sensors, dual-zone climate control and cruise control with a speed limiter.

In addition you get an eight-inch touchscreen with DAB radio and CD which includes Bluetooth and emergency assistance, full seat adjustment, an overhead console with stowage for sunglasses and ambient courtesy lighting.

A navigation system can be added for £300 and the test car also came with a winter pack at £25 which heats the front seats and steering wheel.

The C-MAX features all the latest electronic safety gear and also comes with a tyre pressure warning system and hill start assist.

A driver assistance pack at £550 adds active city stop, lane departure warning, lane keeping aid, traffic sign recognition and auto high beam.

A convenience pack costing £275 offered active park assist and front parking sensors.

On the engine front there is plenty to choose from in both petrol and diesel - including Ford's award-winning 1.0-litre turbocharged EcoBoost power plant.

This car came with the 118bhp 1.5-litre diesel unit mated to a nice six-speed manual box which is not surprisingly the biggest seller. I found this combination to be ideal for the Grand C-MAX.

It packs bags of punch and reaches 62mph in 12.3 seconds and has a top speed of 112mph.

It is also very frugal with a claimed combined figure of 64.2mpg - I averaged just over 50mpg.

For an MPV the Grand C-MAX remains fun to drive and with the added kit and tech it is an even better proposition.

Eadie: That was the best goal of my life

Sweetest of strikes helps keep Hawks in play-off mix

By Matt Storey

matt.storey@hertsessexnews.co.uk

LAYNE EADIE said his wonder-strike in Harlow Town's 6-2 victory over Worthing was the best of his career.

The Hawks continued their play-off push in the Ryman Premier with the impressive victory and sit in ninth place, just two points off the final play-off spot.

Eadie's goal made the score 4-2 with 15 minutes left; the ball was cleared from a cross and bounced to the left-back, whose left-footed shot arrowed into the top corner from 30 yards out.

"It wasn't a bad strike," joked Eadie. "It is definitely my best strike, but probably not the most important."

"The goal against Bury Town in the play-off final last season was the most important, definitely, but Saturday's goal is probably my number one."

"It was a turning point in the game as well, they'd just got two goals back to make it 3-2 but their shoulders dropped when it went in."

"It was one of those that I knew would go in when I hit it. I believe in myself so I was not surprised, just over the moon with it."

"That was the same as the lads really, they were just saying 'what a strike' and were pleased for me."

The Hawks have strung together three wins in a row to put themselves right back into the play-off mix.

They are two points off the top five and Eadie is confident they can push on for the remaining 15 games.

"Every team is picking up points off each other still, so winning three on the bounce is important," Eadie added.

"It just clicked on Saturday. If I'm honest we've been close to that for a while, but we didn't always get the rub of the green."

"We've got to carry on that level of performance."

After five home games in a row, Danny Chapman's side travel to Staines Town on Saturday before making the trip to Burgess Hill Town on Tuesday night.

Tough

Eadie is expecting two tough tests, but is hopeful of picking up six more points.

"It'll be a battle at Staines," Eadie explained. "Every game in this league is a battle though."

"If we go there and nine or ten of the players win their individual battles, then we'll come away with three points."

"Then Tuesday produce a similar level of performance to what we have been and we can be confident of getting three more points."

Alex Read, Jared Small, Bamba Ngamb and a brace from Junior Dadson helped the Hawks to the victory on Saturday.

Runners are slick in mud

MUDDY conditions greeted Harlow Running Club's competitors at the East Herts and West Essex Cross Country League race at Newport.

It was the third race out of five in the league season, run over a 4.5-mile course.

The ladies' team finished fourth out of six teams and the men's team were fifth, leaving Harlow in fourth place overall.

Sharon Wright was first lady home, finishing in eighth place in a superb 33min 23sec. She was followed by Carinne Jay (16th, 34:35), Julia Gardiner (17th, 34:44), Catherine Ridge (22nd, 36:14) and Anna Robey (23rd, 36:29).

In the men's race Rob Lowe finished in eighth place in an excellent 27:21. He was followed by Rich Hynes (28, 29:15), Owen Haigh (37th, 30:10), Darren Tiley (40th, 30:28) and Jason Haigh (47th, 31:14).

Meanwhile, serial racer Andy Kinney again ran two 10km races over the weekend.

On Saturday he completed the Hyde Park 10km, finishing in 243rd place out of 379 finishers in 59:09. On Sunday he finished the Brass Monkey 10km at Corby in Northants, finishing in 253rd place out of 370 finishers in 58:32.

At the Panshanger parkrun 5km in Hertford, Rob Lowe was victorious in first place out of 276 finishers, in a fantastic 17:57.

Owen bags a judo bronze

OWEN Lambert picked up a bronze medal for Harlow Judo Club in the Midland Area Age Band Judo Championships in Walsall.

The 11-year-old won his first fight comfortably but unfortunately lost his second fight due to a mistake.

This meant that the youngster dropped down to the repechage (compound knockout) and, unfortunately, was unable to compete for the gold and silver medals.

He went on to win the remainder of his fights to eventually claim the first of two bronze medals.

Coach Mick Ellis said a silly mistake cost his young player a higher medal placing, adding: "There is always lots to take away and work on in training. Next year he will compete as a Pre-Cadet so there is much to look forward to."

Owen competed in the minors age band category, which is a category for children born between 2005 and 2006.

Harlow prove they are serious title contenders

HARLOW Rugby Club passed a major test on Saturday when they won 27-22 at fellow London Three North East title challengers Southwold.

Playing into a strong wind in the first half, Harlow were immediately pinned back in their own 22.

However, patient defence and good clearance kicks from half-backs Danny Smith and Charlie Woodington meant Harlow were able to weather the early storm unscathed.

After 15 minutes Harlow turned defence into attack, forcing a turnover in their own half. The ball was quickly moved to Smith who scored under the posts, with the try converted.

Harlow were clinical with the ball and after 25 minutes strong running from Scott Whitby and Andrew Tarsey created quick ball for the stretching Ross Stalley to touch down in the corner.

Rob Mackie was allowed too much space and he broke through before off-loading to Stalley. The ball was moved wide again, with Michael Weston scoring in the corner to make it 17-0 with 35 minutes gone.

Southwold got on the board before the break, however, as the home team spread the ball wide and the centre touched down under the posts.

Southwold forced an early penalty after the break to cut the deficit to seven points, but Smith responded with a penalty of his own.

Utilising their powerful pack, Southwold tightened up the game and forced James Ephgrave to give away a penalty, for which he was sin-binned.

Opting for the scrum, the hosts' pressure told and the referee awarded a penalty try to bring the score to 20-17.

Harlow went on the attack and with five minutes to go scored their fourth try of the match. Skipper Shaun Roberts used all his experience to get over the line and Stalley converted to give Harlow a ten-point lead.

There was still time for one more Southwold try but it had no impact on the result.

Speaking after the game, head coach Lee Harron said: "This was a great team performance against really strong opposition."

"The character the boys showed in defence was excellent and I was especially pleased with how well we took our chances."
